CONFERENCE HISTORY

会议历史

The Higher Education Young Talent Alliance (HEYTA) was launched in 2018 to expand humanities-related discussion between the China and UK student communities. In the past three years, it has successfully been held twice by students from Tsinghua University and once by students from the University of Exeter. The themes of the conference have been as follows:

- 2019, hosted by Tsinghua University (Beijing): Exploring Beauty in Humanities and Innovation, Bridging the Communication between China and the UK.
- 2020, hosted by the University of Exeter (online): Digital Humanities and Special Collections, Intercultural Communications, Theatre and Performance, and International Cultural Exchange.
- 2021, hosted by Tsinghua University (online): Digital Humanities, Studies of Eastern and Western Plays, and Comparative Literature.

CONFERENCE HOST

承办方简介

This year, the University of Exeter will host HEYTA 2022 in the form of a virtual summit. In 2019, Exeter was declared a UNESCO World City of Literature, joining a small and prestigious group of cities around the world to hold this honour. The University of Exeter is home to literary collections by the likes of Daphne du Maurier, Agatha Christie, Ted Hughes, Sir John Betjeman, and William Golding. The Faculty of Humanities, Arts and Social Sciences at Exeter is recognised around the world for the high quality of its scholarship, and has been ranked 94th in the QS World Nomination rankings, and in the top 100 for the Times Higher: Arts and Humanities table.
