BEYOND ROMAN EXETER: NEW DISCOVERIES SOUTH OF ISCA

Guest speaker Dr Naomi Payne, AC Archaeology/University of Exeter Honorary Fellow

Development-led investigations, particularly those for new housing around existing centres of population, are continually providing new evidence for past settlement. The body of data has expanded considerably in the decade since the completion of the Roman Rural Settlement of Britain Project. This seminar will consider a number of recent excavations of Roman rural settlements, with particular emphasis on the finds assemblages.
